PHOENIX MILLERS TO GET LOWER RATE

FREIGHT ON WHEAT FROM KANSAS CITY IS ALTOGETHER TOO HIGH

EL PASO, Nov. 19.—The hearing for the interstate commerce commission held before W. E. Lamb of Washington brought by the Valley flour mills of Phoenix, Ariz., against the A. T. & S. F., and the Santa Fe & Prescott railroads, charging discrimination in the rates on wheat from Kansas to Phoenix, has been completed.

The case of the West Texas Fuel company against the local railroads, excepting the Southwestern, was taken up. This case was brought because the coal company charges a discrimination in the switching charges of an interstate freight car as compared with the charges for moving a car consigned to a point within the state.

Attorney A. A. Hurd appeared for the Santa Fe, Rufus B. Daniels of El Paso for the complainants, and R. W. Curtis for the Texas & Pacific.

Mr. Daniels also appeared for the Phoenix mills in their case earlier in the day.

The testimony in the Phoenix case showed a remarkable condition of affairs. The rate on wheat from Kansas City to Phoenix is $1.18 per 100 pounds and on flour from Kansas City it is $1.25. It was shown that 100 pounds of wheat makes 66 pounds of flour, and that the Kansas City millers therefore have considerable advantage over the Phoenix millers, as they can reduce 100 pounds of wheat to 66 pounds of flour and ship it into Phoenix for 92½ cents, while the Phoenix millers have to pay $1.18 for the wheat before treating it.

The railroad officials it is said, admitted to the court that the new rate of $1.18 on wheat is too high and that the old rate of 88 cents was sufficient. It is possible that the old rate will be restored.

The reduction will mean a saving of about $150 a car to Phoenix millers. It is also quite likely that the switching charges in El Paso yards will be reduced as a result of the hearing here, as the representatives of the railroads admitted that they did not see much reason for charging $5 on switching interstate cars and $3 for state cars. The fuel company made application for a reduction of the switching charges on all cars to $2.50.

El Paso promises to become an important center for hearings of the interstate commerce commission. The Old Dominion Copper Mining & Smelting company of Globe, Arizona, has filed 52 identical counts with the commission at Washington against a number of railroads east of the Rocky mountains. The mining company alleges that an unreasonable and discriminating rate is made the company on coke shipments from the east. The discrimination is alleged to be in effect between El Paso and Globe, and the commission is asked to make an equitable adjustment.

The Old Dominion case will probably be tried before a special venire here.

Store News.

It is our desire to impress upon the buying public the folly of patronizing the mail order houses in the mail order field. Keep your money at home. There is nothing to be gained by buying a pig in a poke. To be sure the monster catalogues of the eastern mail order houses are very attractive and offer inducements which would appeal to the average buyer if he did not stop to think a minute. The prices seem to be low. But when the quality of the goods, the expense of transportation—which the customer must always pay—the difference between description and actual goods, and, above all, the advantage of inspecting goods before buying are taken into consideration, the local merchant is found to be in a position to better serve his patrons than the big mail order houses. Think it over in the light of past experience.

O. R. Feist has a new window showing a beautiful line of cut glass ware for the holiday trade.

James Wiley is having a new open front put in his place of business near the postoffice on Broad street.

Miss Fannie Patton of Brookner's office force was absent from the store yesterday, being detained at home by illness.

Seelig's grocery store is all fixed up for the Thanksgiving trade and promises lots of good things to eat for that occasion.

Harley Murphy of the grocery department at Brookner's, is confined to his home for a few days with an attack of tonsillitis.

Brookner's were clearing space to accommodate a car of Club House canned fruits and vegetables, which are expected to arrive any day.

Despot & Puhara have placed a fine new phonograph in their place of business at the Balkan saloon for the entertainment of their patrons.

J. M. McDonald, proprietor of the Wedge saloon in North Globe, has returned from a week at the Indian Hot Springs, much improved in health.

The Adams Confectionery store has just completed a big lot of satin-finish ribbon candy which is not only very pretty, but tastes like "more."

Brown's store yesterday received a big line of dress suits and Wilson Brothers neckwear. The neckwear embraces many new shades and is a swell line.

The Globe Hardware company has acquired the agency for the Studebaker line of buggies and wagons and will constantly keep on hand a full line of this staple make.

Brown's store has a new millinery window which is very attractive and in harmony with the big millinery sale, which is advertised in the Silver Belt this morning.

"Simplicity is the keynote of beauty," said Teddy Barrett at Ryan's, as he finished resetting the display in the south window yesterday. To be appreciated this window must be seen.

Charles E. Grubbs, the window dresser at Lantini's, is pardonably proud of his last creation. It is a showing of suits, hats and shoes, all arranged in the most artistic and harmonious manner.

The Palace Pharmacy was yesterday busy putting a fine new window display of pictures in their south window. They have an especially fine line of decorative material for the home for the holiday trade this season.

L. N. Marx was yesterday showing a specimen of the new $2.50 gold piece. The figures on the coin are stamped into the metal instead of being raised and are of entirely new design. They are unique and attract much attention.

Mindlin's jewelry store is showing one of the largest diamonds ever brought to Globe. It weighs 13.38 karats and is valued at $2,500. It is certainly a monster and attracted much attention yesterday.

The Globe Jewelry company yesterday was opening up one of the finest lots of silverware ever brought to Globe. Some of the holiday goods coming into Globe now would do credit to the larger cities of the east.

"I have closed six good loans in the last week," said Walter Dayton, the real estate man, yesterday. "Yes, they are all for local improvements, the most of them by people who contemplate building homes in Globe with the money."

"I was invited to go on an automobile trip to Wheatfields today with a party of friends and wanted to go very much," said M. L. Naquin at Naquin's Furniture store, "but we are so very busy that I could not possibly find the time."

Through the agency of the Home United National Bank, N. N. N. Investment company, Shanley & Mounce yesterday signed up a lease on the Redman property at 461 North Broad street. The location will be used by these gentlemen as a butcher shop.

"Out-of-town business is developing very rapidly," said A. H. Hargrave at Sultau's yesterday. "Only this morning our Mr. V. T. Wright took out to Copper Hill a full load of goods for our customers in that locality, and business in the suburbs is rapidly increasing."

GROWING CAMP OF SYLVANITE IN NEW MEXICO

NEW ELDORADO IS ATTRACTING WIDE NOTICE AND SEEMS TO HAVE MERIT

People Are Flocking There From All Quarters—Arizona Because of Its Proximity Furnishing the Greatest Number—Has a Newspaper.

One of the mining surprises of the year has been the discovery of gold in the Hachita mountains, New Mexico, a section which up to nine months ago was but little known and indifferently regarded as a mining country. It was in February last that the Clark brothers, who with their father, J. T. Clark, had followed ranching and the cattle business in that section for a number of years, discovered some placer gold, and after patient prospecting located a mineral ledge carrying some free gold and a whitish metal of the nature of which they were profoundly ignorant.

Samples of the ore were sent to Bisbee, El Paso and other places to have tested and the assay returns were in every instance encouraging, indicating good values in gold, but the opinions of the chemists and experts as to what the white mineral really was showed great variance, and the question is still in dispute. Burlingame of Denver pronounces it alluvial, a form of tellurium ore richer than sylvanite. F. C. Earle, manager of the El Paso smelter, made an assay, the sample going 15 ounces in gold and over one ounce of silver to the ton. Mr. Earle says the silvery looking ore is tellurium. A. W. Houck of El Paso, having tested a sample of ore from Sylvanite, said it was not a telluride of gold and silver—or in other words not sylvanite. John A. Rice, engineer, geologist and chemist, and O. A. Critchett of the custom assay office, agree that "The white metal is not sylvanite; it contains no gold or silver, but is tetradymite, a telluride of bismuth. Native gold in a free state occurs with the mineral." Such is expert opinion, but the important fact is that the ore from nearly all the locations in the district carry gold in paying quantities.

J. T. Clark, father of the Clark brothers, who made the original discoveries at Sylvanite, is in Globe and called at the Silver Belt office Monday. Mr. Clark stated that Sylvanite was growing quite rapidly and now has a population of nearly 500. Many people have gone there from Bisbee, Douglas and other towns of southeastern Arizona, while Nevada, Colorado, Montana, Idaho, and other western states are well represented. New people are arriving every day. There are now in the camp several general stores, a drug store, two hotels and several lodging houses, restaurants, butcher shops, barber shop, blacksmith shops, mining engineers and surveyors, doctors, lawyers and eight or ten saloons; and a necessity in every live mining camp—a newspaper, the Sylvanite Sun, published weekly by Newton Trenham. Old timers here will be interested to learn that Mart Moore, who hauled coke into Globe, and copper out to Wilcox more than twenty years ago, is located at Sylvanite and runs a stage line between the new camp and Hachita, about 17 miles distant, on the A. & N. M. railroad. A number of automobiles also run between the two places. A telephone line has just been completed.

The gold district in which Sylvanite is situated is about six miles in length and lies well up on the Hachita mountains at an elevation of nearly 5,000 feet. Nearly the whole district is covered by mining locations. Active development is now under way upon some twenty-five or thirty claims, but as yet no companies with adequate capital have been organized to develop and operate mines at Sylvanite. The deepest shaft in the new diggings is only 75 feet. There are about 100 miners at work. Good assays are obtained from most of the claims being developed, ranging from a few dollars up to several thousand per ton. Mr. Clark showed us an assay sheet giving the returns from a sample of ore from a claim owned by one of his sons showing 3.88 ounces of gold and 6-10 of an ounce of silver to the ton, or a total value of $17.90. This assay was by Burlingame & Co., of Denver. Another by Varney & Dillon of Sylvanite gave $80 and still another $119 in gold.

J. N. Clark, owner of the Gold Eagle mine has leased it to Camp, Ish and Goshen, who are also largely interested in the Sylvanite Townsite & Development company. C. F. Clark owns the Wake-Up-Charlie and J. E. Clark is part owner of the Broken Jug. These are among the best claims in the camp. Sylvanite is now a real mining camp—the first "grand ball" is announced by the Sun, as follows:

"Watch for the grand ball in the English Kitchen, the first dance of the new gold camp. Billy Truxx promises the best floor, the best music, the best management and the best time ever pulled off in a three weeks' old city, and what Bill says goes."
